

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah’s daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I’m sure Mommy was so happy about that. He’d use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn’t participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn’t an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it’s one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn’t until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on:

Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books.

Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on:
Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital

Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah’s daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I’m sure Mommy was so happy about that. He’d use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn’t participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn’t an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it’s one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn’t until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can’t pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God’s Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on:

Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah’s daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I’m sure Mommy was so happy about that. He’d use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn’t participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn’t an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it’s one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn’t until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can’t pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God’s Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on:

Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah’s daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I’m sure Mommy was so happy about that. He’d use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn’t participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn’t an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it’s one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn’t until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can’t pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on:
Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes,

I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on:
Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly.

What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah’s daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I’m sure Mommy was so happy about that. He’d use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn’t participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn’t an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it’s one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn’t until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can’t pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God’s Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on:
Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah’s daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I’m sure Mommy was so happy about that. He’d use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn’t participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn’t an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it’s one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn’t until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can’t pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God’s Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah’s daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I’m sure Mommy was so happy about that. He’d use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn’t participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn’t an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it’s one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn’t until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on:

Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books.

Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on:
Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital

Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah’s daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I’m sure Mommy was so happy about that. He’d use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn’t participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn’t an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it’s one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn’t until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can’t pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God’s Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on:
Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah’s daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I’m sure Mommy was so happy about that. He’d use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn’t participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn’t an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it’s one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn’t until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can’t pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God’s Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on:

Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah’s daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I’m sure Mommy was so happy about that. He’d use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn’t participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn’t an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it’s one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn’t until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can’t pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on:
Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners

prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes,

I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly.

What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah’s daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I’m sure Mommy was so happy about that. He’d use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn’t participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn’t an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it’s one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn’t until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can’t pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God’s Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on:
Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah’s daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I’m sure Mommy was so happy about that. He’d use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn’t participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn’t an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it’s one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn’t until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can’t pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God’s Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, “Hey I have got to come into this world!” And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah’s daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I’m sure Mommy was so happy about that. He’d use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn’t participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn’t an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it’s one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, “I should ask you out sometime.” Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn’t until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!

Congregational Spotlight on: Sarah Lane – Loved By God

The year is 1981 and little Elisha and Amy are excited because Mommy is going to have a baby. For nine months that sweet little bundle of joy was growing and changing constantly. What would it be – boy or girl? Then on Monday, September 28 at Floyd Memorial Hospital Sarah decided, "Hey I have got to come into this world!" And Tom and Bridgette saw that they had another wonderful baby girl.

Living in Corydon with her two sisters and her parents was fun for Sarah. And her dad was just the best. He toted her and her sisters everywhere with him. Some dads always feel like it is such a bother to take their kids along but not Sarah's daddy. Why he even carried all three girls with him to the cemetery so he could take pictures of headstones for his genealogy books. Woohoo!!

However, the absolute best was when her dad would tear apart the living room. Oh yes, I'm sure Mommy was so happy about that. He'd use sheets and chairs to make tunnels so they could play. And Sarah and her sisters would play for hours.

As far as school was concerned Sarah could have cared less. Sure she developed a love for reading and photography but that was it. Therefore she didn't participate in any sports because it meant more time dedicated at school and...nope...that just wasn't an option.

Her favorite class was photography where she learned how to develop film in a black room. Yep folks, this was way before the digital camera! LOL Well this class helped secure her love of taking pictures and that is why it's one of her favorite hobbies to this day. As far as reading goes...she is a self-proclaimed bookworm. Well, finding the time to read right now is a bit difficult.

Probably the best school memory was the day trip she took to Washington DC. She loved visiting all of the monuments and learning the history...kinda reminds me of her dad. For her it was so amazing to stand in front of the White House. How cool is that to be right where the President of the United States lives!

Sarah met Matt in high school. They had passed by each other in the hall for years but had just never spoken to one another. Then in her senior year they shared a class and began talking. One day he said, "I should ask you out sometime." Sarah waited and he never did. Chicken! Therefore, Sarah asked him out. They went to the movies and have been together ever since. They officially became man and wife on December 7, 2002.

She and Matt have four children. She loves taking her girls shopping and taking the whole crew to the movies and watching things like Star Wars, Guardians of the Galaxy, Lord of the Rings, Thor, Disney movies, etc. Pretty much staying home with the family and being together gives her much joy and contentment.

When Sarah was a child she remembers being in Sunday school and saying the sinners prayer. However, it wasn't until the youth group went on a trip to the Pensacola, FL revival that her life changed. She felt something she had never felt before. It was more than just going to church and reading your Bible. God was ALIVE. He was REAL!

Here at Revolution Church, Sarah would like to see us break through barriers that have never been broken through before. She wants to see us alive and pulsating with the presence of God so strongly that people can't pass by on the street without feeling it. She longs for a deep outpouring of God's Holy Spirit. She wants it REAL. No more religion!